Qi Gong

Qigong is a traditional Chinese practice combining gentle movements, breath control, and meditation to enhance physical and mental well-being, balance energy (qi), and promote relaxation and healing.

Tai Chi

A Chinese martial art that involves slow, flowing movements and deep breathing. It is often described as a moving meditation, and is believed to help improve balance, flexibility, & overall physical and mental health.

Vinyasa Yoga

A physical, mental and spiritual practise aiming to control the mind, body and breath. It is a system designed to create a clearer mind, internal peacefulness and balance. Our Vinyasa Yoga class runs for one hour and is a creative form of yoga where poses are linked together with the breath in a flowing sequence.

Slow Flow Yoga

Slow Flow Yoga is a wonderfully gentle way of doing yoga postures with deliberation and calm. The pace of a flow class is meditative and focuses on peace and serenity in the mind and your body awareness. Poses are held longer, breathing very intentional, and transitions flow.

Yin Yoga

Our Yin Yoga classes target the connective tissues, bones and joints in the body that aren't normally used in traditional exercises or yoga. Yin yoga focuses on balance and actively stretching your muscles over a period of time.

Meditation

Meditation is a practice used to teach and develop mindfulness and other qualities such as calmness and insight. During our meditation classes you are encouraged to anchor your focus to the present through the use of various techniques such as breathing, body movements and visualisation.

Aqua Aerobics

Aqua Aerobics offers you a quality workout using the resistance of the water and helping to eliminate the risk of aggravation or injury. Our classes help increase your strength, flexibility and overall health and can be tailored to suit your level and needs.
